SPEECHES.

BORAH LINED UP Realizes He Must Run for Re- election as Harding Man or Be Beaten.

Gazette.

Helena, Mont.—President Harding is aspiring to the role of moral leadership which gave Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt their hold on that great body of independent voters, sometimes called "Progressives" who swing the balance of power in the American electorate today.

"Tingling" his speeches in Idaho and Montana with a message of what might be called "radicalism" the president's "radicalism" is a significant declaration.

First, recognizing that his "radicalism" is a significant declaration, he came out four square for the principle of co-operative marketing by the producer with a hint of co-operative buying by the consumer if the middle man didn't take warning.

Second, he struck boldly at those romantics of the conservative variety who since the campaign of 1920 have sought to convey the impression that the laborer is the oppressed, and that the influence of the federal administration and that the "open shop" law made the mother, too, compelled to work to support the family.

Third, the president preached a sermon on the proper relation of woman to the home but pointed out that social justice demanded living wages for the father, the mother, too, compelled to work to support the family.

Fourth, the president took a leaf out of Senator Borah's book of ideals in the campaign of 1920. Incidentally, the campaign of 1920. Incidentally, the campaign of 1920.

Unloading seized liquor from S. S. Baltic in New York.

Under a rigid embargo, it was said in official circles, the ships themselves could be seized, pending an outcome of the cases thus specifically forced to land.

It is known the American and British governments desire a satisfactory and quiet diplomatic adjustment of the entire liquor problem, as applying to ships bringing in liquor despite the fact that in reality British shipping heads, including Sir Ashley Sparke, American resident director of the Cinquante, have "dared" the American government to carry out its already established policy and interpretation of the law.

SENATE MEETS IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE APPROPRIATIONS

UNIVERSITY, NORMALS,
FARMERS FACING FUND CRISIS.

ASSEMBLY QUILTS TB Eradication Stands Best Chance of Salvage from General Wreck.

Madison.—Hopeful it can save something from the wreck of the 1923 Wisconsin legislature for the University of Wisconsin, the nine normal schools and for Wisconsin farmers, the senate was to meet Monday afternoon to consider three remaining appropriation bills, aggregating nearly $14,000,000.

The session broke up Saturday night when the assembly killed the university and normal school appropriation bills, because the senate refused to attach income surtax amendments to their financing sections, and then packed up and went home. Senator Alexander, four votes short of a quorum, remained to salvage the bills. These placed on a call of the house and recessed under a gentleman's agreement until Monday.

Without Added Funds.

While some upper house members were optimistic, the majority saw no hope for an agreement over income surtaxes between the two houses, and consequently no likelihood of appropriations for the state educational institutions. Assemblymen and senators alike spoke of the need of a special session, probably in October, to finish the work of the present session.

Although this measure thus far has failed to provide for the university and normal schools, these institutions operate under continuing appropriations. They can continue to London.—The Ruhr valley is again to the forefront as the focal point of the reparations struggle between Germany and the allies, while allied differences in policy toward Germany are being thrashed out diplomatically in London, Paris and Brussels.

In London the French reply to the British questionnaire on the Franco-British policy, impatiently awaited by the British foreign office, was expected Monday. Paris indicates that the answer to the Ruhr crisis and the Rhineland have only strengthened the French decision to hold firm until Germany yields.

BIG CROWDS GREET CHOLERA OUTBREAK

WIS. DAIRY TRAIN IN FOUR COUNTIES

Western Farmers Enthusiastic About Badger Dairy Exhibit.

Wisconsin dairy cattle on the special sent out of the state are attracting favorable attention, according to a letter received from L. L. Oldham, secretary of the Wisconsin Holstein association.

Good crowds have attended the demonstrations staged at each stop in the Dakotas and Montana. In Minnesota heavy rains prevented the expected attendance, but at Aitkin 2,000 or more people were on the fair grounds for the parade and lectures.

Among the Wisconsin men on the train are Reid Murray, Madison, representing the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association; L. L. Oldham, representing the Holstein-Friesian association of Wisconsin; B. F. Sheridan, representing the Guernsey breeders' association; Paul O. Nyhus, of the livestock and reporting service of the U. S. department of agriculture; J. C. Robinson of beef cattle fame; W. A. Von Berg of the movie showing; and Frank Baldwin in charge of exhibits and Frank Baldwin and William Blocher, looking after the cattle on the train; C. M. Long of the Holstein-Friesian association of Chicago; C. L. Burlington of the Ayrshire Breeders' association; John Tormey of the Short-horn association; Secretary Myster of Guernsey association; J. C. McDowell of the U. S. dairy department; Washington, and other prominent lights in the dairy world will take their turn on the train as it makes the circuit.

Prof. George C. Humphrey in his remarks at the send-off of the train when he said: "This train will do two things—it will show the farmers of the west what is necessary to successful dairying as we have come to understand it in the greatest dairy state in the union, and it will show Wisconsin dairy cattle breeders what their breed associations mean to them in 'promotive' effect. On this train you will not find the highest type of fancy show individuals, rather will you find the kind of high producing animals both grade and purebred of all the leading dairy breeds within the reach of every man. These 18 animals show the kind that we can and should try to produce in large numbers, both for our own use there, and then as a surplus to sell to other states. Every animal on the train has been picked by men familiar with their breed to demonstrate in a striking manner some of the more important lessons in successful dairying and breeding of dairy purpose animals. Demonstrating by way of exhibiting live specimens has always been successful and the transcontinental train will be successful in every sense."

AUSTIN'S STEERS TOP THE CHICAGO MARKET

Hereford steers fed by W. B. Austin, of Janesville, scored the top price for yearling cattle at the Chicago stock yards June 26 when they sold at $10.75 a hundred weight. There were 61 head in the shipment that had been laid in as calves last fall. The Herefords were bred at the famous S. M. S. Ranch in Texas, and they were fed the usual Wisconsin ration. Weighed over the scales at Chicago, they averaged 1050 pounds a head, considerably over twice their weight last fall.

Wisconsin fed steers have not sold at the top price at Chicago for many months, but this sale proves conclusively that Wisconsin grain and forage when fed to the right kind of cattle by a competent man will make the highest priced beef.

One of the best type steers in the lot fed by Austin has been picked out by the owner and J. C. Nisbet, entry for the fat steer class at the state fair and possibly the International. Efforts are being made to have Austin fit a carload for the International carload lot competition.

HAVE BIG COSTUME ARRAY FOR JULY 4

Black Hawk Will Be Impersonated by Holt Wearing Chief Joe's Attire.

Back in 1877, Chief Joseph and his band of 1,500 Blackfoot Indians were massacred in Shelby, Mont., by Gen. Miles and his troops.

On the very night, July 4, that another great fight, this time the heavy weight pugilistic championship of the world, is being fought at Shelby, Janesville will be close to that western town.

The costumes that were worn by Chief Joseph when he was killed will be worn in the pageant, "The Land of Black Hawk," to be played here on the nights of July 3 and 4 at the fair grounds. Frank C. Holt, superintendent of Janesville's public schools, who takes the part of Chief Black Hawk, will don the redskin's attire.

This is only one of the hundreds of special costumes that will be worn by the vast number of people who will take part in the spectacle.

Costume Director Here

Mrs. C. A. Lucas, Minneapolis, costume expert for The Thursday Management, Inc., Minneapolis, which is staging the outdoor play, is in Janesville to direct this part of the production. Many of the costumes were designed here to meet the special needs of pageantry.

Costumes of the legitimate stage are brilliant and are made the more so by brilliant lights. With the pageant, soft colors are essential, largely because the background is the darkness of night and the lights are soft. Pastel colors are many.

Care in Choosing Colors

Great care is necessary in choosing colors, says Mrs. Lucas. Green cannot be used where trees are part of the stage setting, for in the darkness the greens would fade into each other.

Costumes for the dancers will be pictures of beauty. Though filmy, they render atmosphere. One of the dance scenes will give the effect of fire as the three battalions of special lights play on red costumes.

There are costumes and wardrobe now here at the floral house at the fair grounds sufficient to costume the most spectacular show ever witnessed in this part of the country. There is a complete savage paraphernalia of hides, beaded buckskins, furs, blankets, war, bonnets, ornaments of claws, teeth, horns, metal implements of spears, bows and arrows, clubs, tomahawks, scapling knives, pipes, drums, rattles, Grand Medicine charms and bags.

All Kinds of Costumes

There are the costumes of the first white men, the traders, the voyagers, the missionaries, trappers, prospectors, soldiers. Here are the gaily colored tunics and tall tasseled caps of the self-styled "nobles" of the upper buckskins, the boots, red plumed shirts and bandannas of the prospectors and the old fashioned blue uniforms of the soldier.

When the historic "prairie schoolers" arrive bringing their loads of settlers, you will easily find among them the counterpart of your grand-parents and their many friends. Recalled the days of the pioneer, dressed in your attire for years and before you in real life will appear the subjects.

Change in Styles

The clothes they will wear will amuse you, rough, queer, old homespuns and calicoes, sunbonnets, girling plaid shirts—styles that will seem ridiculous now but which were the height of fashion back yonder.

Later, after the settlement gets a start, frame houses, crooked, timbered and the social order changes, the homespun gives way to silk, velvet and broadcloth, bounding hoop-skirts with their flaring, gaily colored, buttoned, puffed, and frilled, and the women wear their embroidered vests, bright colored trousers and high hats. There will come the official Prince Alberts and voluminous bright colored capes in the village festivities of the Virginia reel. Veritably, a riot of color.

The costumes alone are worth attendance.

Washington.—Roland W. Boyden, an American observer with the reparations commissions, virtually since its establishment, under the Versailles peace treaty, has tendered his resignation and will be succeeded by his assistant, Col. James A. Logan, Jr. The decision was due to Boyden's desire to resume the practice of law.

shortage, the highway department says.

Despite attempts to repeal and to amend, the Severson prohibition amendment statute remains unaffected by the legislature. Many expected changes in the search and seizure clause when the governor took a hand in the fight. The senate refused to enact recommendations, however.

The state board of education was abolished by the session on recommendation of Governor Blaine. Other important changes in educational policy failed of passage, except one which makes proposed consolidation of schools optional with districts rather than compulsory. Many doubt whether these results are advances in an educational way.

Proposed unemployment insurance was killed by the senate, as was the suggested eight hour day in industry, and the move to abolish the Wisconsin national guard. Both houses

Our Obligation to Hanover.

We have a moral obligation in this county to the community of Hanover which should not be overlooked when we are finishing the program for paved roads. When the bonds of the county were voted for hard surfaced roads the route for Highway 20 was set through Hanover to Orfordville. By the interference of the state and the interposition of the federal authority we have sidetracked Hanover and left it on a dirt road. Here arises a question as to whether we are making roads for tourists from other states who spend a week or so kicking up the dust, or for the benefit of the residents along highways or contiguous thereto, who have loads to haul, products to market and goods to take home from market towns.

The Gazette has repeatedly opposed that form of a road program which takes into consideration the outside tourist only and does not give first attention to the resident of the state, county and township. The taxpayer, landowner, tenant, resident, citizen, to whichever class division or subdivision he may belong, bears in one way or another directly or indirectly, a large part of the burden of cost of the roads. He is the first consideration. Our highway department at Madison is efficient and clever. It is able and has done much to make Wisconsin first in highway building, but for all that it is possessed apparently of the action that we should make a net-work of trunk lines for the benefit of the man and his family from Tennessee or Indiana, who comes in to the state with a box of canned goods, bed-quits, a tent and a map showing the location of the free tourist camps. When he gets home he brags that all the trip cost was gasoline and three dollars for milk. He pays nothing, spends little and yet he looms largest in the mind of the highway commission at Madison when it comes to location of roads.

Now then, to get back to Hanover. Route 20 has been located to the Green county line. It has been done and of course it was not satisfactorily settled for all. Necessarily, as there is one road to be built and several routes, it could not be done to the satisfaction of all. The main thing is that we are to have the highway. That is a big finality. And yet we cannot overlook the obligation we owe to Hanover and the people round about. There ought to be a cement road built to that community center from the main line of Route 20. The settlement is entitled to it and ought to have it. Sometimes a moral obligation is far weightier than a legal one and it is to be hoped we will fulfill it in this instance.

We want roads—roads that aid and help the farmers of the county in transportation of products, in making it easier to get to markets. We have gone far afield on the road program. It is time, to make highways which are for our people and not so much for the people of other states who come visiting.

Will some one start a subscription to mark the historic spot where Senator Barney Moran had his chicken dinner? We shall insist that Governor Blake make the speech at the dedication.

The Legislature Reaches the End of the Road.

Even a bad road sometimes ends. So far as actual legislation is concerned the state legislature of 1923 is at an end. There are a few broken threads to tie, another short session of the senate for July 11, when the last of the bills are to be given the final once-over and then sine die adjournment. It ought to be a relief to the state. We are law mad and among the happy and complimentary things both to the state and to itself is the record made by the assembly as well as the senate in killing bills before adjournment, Saturday night. The list is long and comfortable. Nearly 400 new laws have been sent to the governor for signature. Happily he has aided in the work of slaughter, but to a small degree only. He has had a wonderful opportunity to relieve the statute books of a number of laws which are as out of place as a hurdy gurdy at a funeral.

The attempt to place surtax riders on a number of appropriation bills defeated some of the pet schemes of the powers in control. One unfortunate action was in reference to the tuberculosis appropriation bill. That bill had been agreed upon and passed, the senate carrying a million dollars for this most necessary and laudable purpose of eradicating tuberculosis from the cattle of Wisconsin. But the assembly, full well knowing that a surtax rider would never pass the senate, attached one as a means of killing the bill. The senate refused to pass it in that form after having already passed the bill as originally drawn and agreed upon by the representatives of all dairy and farm interests. So the bill died and was resurrected with an appropriation of $770,000 and in this manner passed the assembly. It is one of the measures to be acted on by the senate when it reassembles on July 11. There are others but we are more deeply interested in this bill in Rock county than any other, and can only hope the senate will see to it that this much of a start is given the work of tuberculosis eradication in the next two years. The record of the legislature is nothing of which to be proud. It failed to kill the business of the state or to add to the revenues to such an extent that it could go into the orgy of extravagance which was invited. We may not be thankful for all it did do.

A Pan American Conference

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—While the attention of most people who concern themselves with statecraft has been focused on the Lausanne and other European conferences, a purely American conference has been going on. The Fifth Pan American International conference recently concluded sessions at which constructive steps were taken for the improvement of strictly American affairs. It is the one international conference of importance held in recent months which has not been dominated by such questions as the German reparations, the Near East question and similar perplexed tangles of international diplomacy.

The Pan American International conference takes its keynote from the Monroe Doctrine—America for Americans—and the questions discussed are distinctly American. The conference just concluded adopted four conventions that are of far-reaching importance in the improvement of inter-American relations. They are:

First: A continental treaty providing for the settlement of disputes arising between the American republics by means of an impartial investigation of the facts involved. This treaty provides that all controversies arising between American states which have not been settled through diplomatic channels shall be submitted to a commission of inquiry to be composed of five members. Every member must be an American—that is a citizen of one of the republics of either North or South America. This commission shall investigate and submit a report within one year of the date of its first meeting. The force of public opinion will be depended upon chiefly for the enforcement of the findings of these commissions.

Second: A trade-mark convention. This was drawn by the United States delegation and was approved by the whole conference. It amends the trade-mark treaty of 1910 and affords a basis of protection of American trade-marks in any signatory republic of either North or South America. A trade-mark bureau has been set up at Havana at which any citizen of the Americas can register a trade-mark and obtain a measure of protection in all the other republics. This convention is expected to put a stop to the pirating of famous trade-marks which owners have neglected to register locally.

Third: A technical, commercial and important commercial treaty which standardizes the terms to be used in the classification of merchandise. This will simplify customs tariffs and the compiling of statistics.

Fourth: Another technical, commercial convention relating to the publicity of customs regulations. Confusion in trade arises from too little knowledge in our nation of the customs laws of another. For instance, Brazil might prohibit the importation of certain drugs. An American manufacturer, ignorant of this, might ship a consignment to Rio and find that the drug would be confiscated there as in violation of the Brazilian law. The convention provides that each nation shall exchange full sets of its customs laws with every other nation and facilitate the comprehension of regulations. A handbook covering these various laws is to be published by the Inter-American high commission.

In addition to these four major conventions, the conference adopted a series of important resolutions affecting jointly the people of all the American republics. The Pan American union is strengthened and the ground is laid for the more complete exchange of information on economic, political and social conditions. Cooperation between universities of the various republics, including the exchange of students, is fostered.

The conference resolved that the work of codifying the whole body of American law as it affects all the republics be interrupted by the World War—shall be resumed. A commission of jurists will convene in Rio de Janeiro in 1925 for this purpose.

An interesting series of resolutions on hygienic questions was adopted as a statement of guiding principles for all the American republics. They treat of a uniform international maritime sanitary code; responsibility of governments for the care of the indigent sick; the development of public hygiene as a profession; the sanitary safeguarding of national frontiers; uniform American standards for food and drugs; international conferences to further public health work, and technical declarations concerning the reporting of disease for statistical purposes.

The American delegation injected into the conference an opening wedge for the international extension of prohibition. A resolution was adopted recommending to all American republics that they adopt measures conducive to the prohibition of shipments of intoxicating beverages to a country where their consumption is prohibited. In other words, the resolution seeks for international cooperation to prevent the runners from smuggling intoxicants into a country such as the United States, where liquor is forbidden.

The conference did much to simplify and improve ocean transportation arrangements. It agreed that uniform rules and regulations be adopted to govern ports of entry, so that an Argentine ship, a Cuban ship or a United States vessel would know just what it would encounter in the way of rules and fees of entering any port of a signatory republic. This would eliminate petty graft.

One of the most comprehensive subjects taken up and encouraged is the Pan American railroad project. This proposal is for the extension of the Pan American railroad until it traverses every American country. On completion of such a railroad, it would be possible to enter a car in New York and journey without interruption to Buenos Aires or Santiago de Chile.

The same committee of the conference charged with encouraging the several republics to foster the building of extensions and sections of such an ideal American railroad, also is charged with the active advocacy of the construction of highway systems throughout the western hemisphere which will promote motor truck and automobile transportation. Because of the precipitous mountains of many of the Latin American countries, both railroad and highway systems are remote dreams now, but it is believed the dreams will be realized.

The conference also appointed a commission to study and encourage commercial aviation. Other resolutions adopted relate to better parcel post arrangements, commercial arbitration, exhibition of samples, standardization of specifications for machinery, literary copyrights and preservation of archeological remains.

but are very happy over what the legislature did not do.

What must be the feeling of the ultra-dry Senator Garey, bosom friend and supporter of the governor, to see appointed to the office of prohibition commissioner, Herman Sachlison, second wealthiest member of the legislature. J. Caesar, stabbed in the neck by the dagger of his friend and companion, Brutus, cried in sorrow, "Et tu Brute!" Must we paraphrase history and record in immortal blank verse Garey's tragic cry of "Oh, John!"

"Science," says Sclimetz, "is going to strike the shackles off men." Goodness! isn't divorce easy enough now?

After reading a veto or two by the governor the legislature ought to order his portrait be done in vinegar.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

PEDRO

These are the days of auction bridge, but when I was a boy there used to be a game of cards which filled the home with joy.

No books were written on the game, save that by Mr. Hoyle.

There were no sharks to come along the evening's fun to spoil.

But there were battles furious for victory, just as the good old days of long ago when pedro was the game.

Perhaps you think it mild today, a simple game to play.

But in the golden time of youth nobody thought that way.

And I can still recall the grin up—my father's face.

When both the five spots which he sought, fell plunk upon his ace.

And when he'd sent his rivals back—and often, that befell—

I still can hear his chuckling boast: "Superior skill will tell!"

It filled a friendly hour or two, glad partners then they made.

There was no criticism of the way the cards were played.

Each bragged that with the other there was not the slightest doubt.

How the battle would be finished—they would make of it a rout.

With fourteen points to fight for, and those five spots counting ten.

Full many a night of merriment passed very swiftly then.

I have forgotten all the rules, I doubt that I could play.

The game my father loved so much, if I were asked today.

I only know how glad we were when friendly cards dropped in.

I only know how much it pleased my kindly dad to win.

I only wish such fellowship and mirth were ours to-day.

As that which marked the good old days when pedro was the game.

STANDARD PHYSICAL TESTS

One may be exceptionally strong in a muscular way and "the picture of health" as that picture is popularly drawn, yet fail to pass a health examination. Muscular strength or muscular development does not imply good health. Neither does normal weight nor moderate overweight. Neither does a ruddy or florid complexion. Neither does a hearty appetite. Neither does a capacity to carry along for months or years without any medical advice or attention. I am not so arbitrary or certain about endurance. Perhaps good physical endurance does imply good functional organic health.

The National Amateur Athletic Union has recently prepared some standard physical tests which will be applied to every member of the club's military training camp in the United States this summer. The tests include running 100 yards, running broad jump, running high jump and bar vault; the standards of physical efficiency are graded as follows: First classes—first boys in their early teens, 13 to 15 years old; next boys 17 and 18 years old; next boys of college age, 19 to 20 years, and finally young men.

These tests are so valuable that I give the table here, as I find it published in Recruiting News, April 1, 1923, bulletin of recruiting information issued by the (adjutant general's office at Washington:

Points	100 yards	Running	High jump	Bar vault
100	15	2-0	2-10	3-8

80	14-0	1-5	2-0	2-10

Who's Who Today

PROF. ALEXANDER MEIKLEJOHN.

Alexander Meiklejohn, who resigned recently as President of Amherst College at the request of the college trustees, has long been an outstanding figure and often a storm-center in the educational world.

Always to have preached the doctrine that what the world needs most is minds that can think clearly, and in a way of fact and elegance, the old-fashioned system of "required" studies as being the curriculum tending best to produce such minds. Since the war, still maintaining his idea and strengthening it in it by the catastrophe of 1914, he has declared, sometimes bitterly, that civilization cannot last with such soft thinking as the world has done in the past, and that the salvation of the human race depends upon education that really educates and that is not restricted to a favored few.

"Dr. Meiklejohn became the head of Amherst in May 1912, after serving for eleven years as Dean of Brown University. At the time of his inauguration he was described as 'the youngest college head with the oldest ideas in the country.' At Brown he was called 'the dean of philosophic view.'"

He loved teaching better than administering, and stipulated that although President of the college he should be allowed to conduct at least one class.

Q. I wish to make an electric lamp. How can a hole be made in the bottom or side of a heavy china vase without cracking the china? A. L.

Q. An ordinary twist drill may be used for drilling china. The drill should be sharp and have a low pitch. The china should be wet with turpentine.

Q. How long has the domestic postage stamp applied to England? W. W.

A. Since the International rate went into effect in 1898 letter postage has been the same on mail to England that it is within our borders.

Q. Please tell how to renovate rained butter? J. A. F.

A. Rained butter may be reloaded, or at least greatly improved, by putting it with some freshly burnt and coarsely powdered, animal charcoal (which has been thoroughly freed from dust by sifting) in a water bath and then straining it through clean flannel. A less troublesome method is to wash the butter well with some new milk and next with cold spring water. Butyric acid, the presence of which rancidity begins, is freely soluble in fresh milk.

Q. Has anybody ever counted the number of articles offered in the Sears-Roebuck catalogue? F. J. W.

A. This first year's last catalogue contains 23,642 price quotations with 43,777 choices. It has 14,000 illustrations.

Q. What is a simple test for gold? J. W. T.

A. The geological survey says that a test for gold is to touch the material with a glass stopper wetted with nitric acid. This would leave gold unchanged, but would color base alloys blue by formation of nitrate of copper.

Q. Why does a reflection in the bowl of a spoon appear upside down? E. A. S.

A. The curved surface of the spoon reflects the light in such a way that the image is inverted.

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1923.

Astrologers declare that the early hours of this day are unusually good for many human activities, for Jupiter and the Sun are in benefic aspect. Uranus is in ill place in the afternoon.

Those who seek employment of any sort should be lucky before noon when the signs seem to promise not only good positions but success for those who obtain them.

According to ancient lore this configuration should be most helpful to those who seek what is lost whether it be money or love.

The giving of presents has a particularly promising sign early this morning and may bring substantial gratitude.

Bankers, brokers and importers are well directed before noon, but they are warned of new anxieties due to international complications.

Politicians come under a confusing and perplexing rule of the stars which encourages them to make grievous blunders.

The way during the afternoon is believed to encourage selfishness, greed and a desire to succeed at any cost.

Neptune continues in an aspect believed to encourage fraud and to contribute to gains through illicit trade.

Honors to artists and literary folk appear to be promised by the signs in the heavens and they will be in contrast to growing sentiment against certain interests controlled by financiers.

The Moon and Saturn are in an aspect that apparently presages a cold summer.

Again a continuance of crime and an added lack of respect for high moral standards are prognosticated.

Mars is in a place most threatening to the future peace of the world and the United States may meet exacting problems next year.

Persons whose birthdate it is should make no radical changes in the coming year. A prosperous period is promised. Those who are employed will benefit.

Children born on this day probably will be very successful in all their undertakings. These subjects of Mars probably will travel widely and will have happy, successful lives.

When the records all show dry and stormy local and cover small areas, and we lose out on so many of these local storms, one ought to be able to see that it would not be justified in promising rain under such conditions. Now that we got the rain, the people are entitled to it. It had promised them surely rain, and no rain came. I would never hear the last of it in such a drought.

So the only thing I was justified in saying is that a storm would really come the 27th or 28th of July.

PREDICTS FAIR WEATHER FOR 4TH

A pleasant fourth of July with a temperature not above 85 degrees is the promise of L. C. Mead, weather prophet. His latest prediction is:

"The present indications are that there will be several days of moderate temperature before it gets very hot. I do not look for it to rise much above 85 degrees for the fourth."

A hot wave is due again, to begin by Saturday, the 7th, which should make good swimming beach weather. With the exception of the 13th, it should be hot till the 17th to 21st, while another hot wave is due to begin about Monday, the 23rd, which should make good swimming beach weather for the last week of July.

"My records show that the new or full moon occurring when we are having the longest days of the year and sun at the most powerful, it is usually a hot disturbing point of the compass, and my records show no rain at all from them. The full moon, June 23, night, looking a drop of rain. When I was reading of such unusual weather in Europe, with snow in Austria, and ice forming in New Mexico, I began to wonder what had happened and if that new moon would prove true to my records. It did not."

"When my records all show dry and stormy local and cover small areas, and we lose out on so many of these local storms, one ought to be able to see that it would not be justified in promising rain under such conditions. Now that we got the rain, the people are entitled to it. It had promised them surely rain, and no rain came. I would never hear the last of it in such a drought."

So the only thing I was justified in saying is that a storm would really come the 27th or 28th of July."

DAY-OLD CHICKS ARE ONLY LIVING THINGS MAILABLE

Dogs, cats, calves and other animals and live fowls other than day-old chicks are not mailable. Postmaster J. J. Cunningham says, and people are requested not to bring them to the office in an attempt to send them by parcel post. In the early days of this system animals could be mailed, but when it came to sending calves by parcel post the new regulation was made.

To Keep Records of Playgrounds

In addition to the figures of attendance kept at all the playgrounds this year, it will also be determined just how many different children take advantage of these grounds. This is to be done by means of a playground enrollment card, which carries spaces for the desired information: name, age, address, telephone, signature, signature of parent and date of entrance of each child using the grounds. Interesting figures are expected.

First real opening of the playgrounds was Saturday when directors started their programs for the summer, after the formal opening of Friday afternoon. Attendance was good. Beaches continue popular, although the cool spell keeps some out. Sunday saw a great many using the Goose Island and Holsapple beaches.

SPEND JULY 4th IN JANESVILLE

The people of Janesville—one and all, old and young—invite you to spend the Fourth here. We have not spared effort or expense to make this day go down in Rock River history as a memorable occasion.

In the morning, we will have appropriate exercises in the Court House park. The Hon. A. E. Matheson will be speaker. The G. A. R. will be in charge of this part of the day's programme.

From 10 a. m. until noon, there will be plenty of fun on the down town streets. Tread auto races, a score of contests for the kids, a greased pig to be caught, a greased pole to be climbed, etc. Fun for all at no expense for any of our guests.

At 2 p. m. you will see the greatest circus parade since Ringling combined with Barnum & Bailey. All wagons will be horse drawn—not an auto, nor an ad in the entire parade. The famous NONESUCH BROTHERS will be here with their entire aggregation of scintillating stars, terrific tigers, merry monkeys, lascivious lions, incomparable Indians, belligerent bears, sinuous snakes, enormous elephants, gigantic giraffes, and popular polar bears. You will see a parade unique and startling come down the West Milwaukee street hill at 2 o'clock.

JULY 3 AND 4--EVENINGS

In the evening of July 3 and 4 at the Fair Grounds, we will present an historical pageant, "The Land of Blackhawk," depicting the history of the Rock River valley for 150 years. There will be an Indian village, a wedding, the coming of the white man, the conflict and battle between whites and Indians, prairie schooners bringing early settlers, the call to arms for the Civil War and later for the World War with a battle in France. A thousand people have been working a month on this pageant. $2,000 has been spent for costumes, scenery, lighting, fireworks and direction. There will be a charge of 50c only for admission to the grounds. Grandstand 50c extra—first come, first served. Gates will be opened at 6 p. m.

Once a year, the people of Janesville invite in their friends from the surrounding country for a big time. Last year it was the "Harvest Festival." This year we want you to come for the Fourth. Start early, bring all the kids—if you have none, help out the neighbors—stay late, have a good time. Remember.

JULY 4--JANESVILLE

Big Celebration ---at--- Waverly Beach JULY 4th

Stupendous display of Aerial Fireworks to be shot off into the river. This, we promise to be a spectacular sight. We are featuring for the evening of July 4th.

PAUL FAIRCHILD The Musical Genius with an 8-piece orchestra, each member of which is an artist picked from Isham Jones, Paul Biese's and some of the other best known Chicago orchestras.

Mr. Fairchild is a former Beloit boy and it is through his brother, now living here, that Mr. Munger, manager of Waverly Beach, is able to obtain this unusual collection of artists. Mr. Fairchild has won fame in the musical world, having traveled from coast to coast with some of the greatest musical organizations in the country. Besides these two unusual attractions we have another just as sensational—is playing a two weeks' engagement here with a company of screen beauties assisting. This show is a scream and has gained considerable comment in every city in which he has played. You will roar with laughter, gasp for a breath, and weep plenty of tears at this funny little man. He is clever, and a fine actor. You can't help but like him every minute.

"BUD" of Ham and Bud Screen Comedy Fame

Our free picnicking grounds will be open from early in the morning until late at night. Drinks and plenty of food will be served at all times. If you desire, bring your own fireworks for the kiddies.

Wonderful Bathing Beach and plenty of Bathing Suits for rent.
